

College Woman of Excellence & Recipient of the LLWC Foundation Scholarship:

Courtney Lynn Lott

Louisiana State University
New Orleans, Louisiana

Courtney Lott is the daughter of Timothy and Karen Lott. She attended Mount Carmel Academy High School in New Orleans where she was a valedictorian, an ambassador and a member of the student council. She is an industrial engineering major at Louisiana State University, where she maintains a 3.99 grade point average. At LSU, Courtney is a member of Delta Gamma Sorority where she was director of rituals as well as “Most Outstanding Sophomore.” Other honors include the LSU Academic Scholars Resident Award, the TOPS Honors Award, the Willow Johnson Memorial Scholarship and The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi.

Courtney was recently selected to work on a project with the LSU Academic Affairs Department to improve their campus tour process by applying statistical analysis and reengineering tools. Prior to this position, Courtney worked at the LSU Chevron Center, where she assisted in managing the operations of the engineering studio. This summer, Courtney has accepted a position as a business analytics intern with ArcBest, an integrated logistics solution company headquartered in Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Courtney attended an LSU study-abroad program last summer where she visited several corporations in Berlin, Leipzig and Munich, Germany, as well as Prague, Czech Republic. This experience confirmed her desire to pursue a career where she can focus on efficiency, quality and sustainability - not only for the benefit of the company, but for the workers, the environment and all of society.

Courtney is a long-time dancer and her love of ballet continues as she takes ballet classes at LSU and a studio in Baton Rouge in her spare time. She also has a passion for mission and volunteer work and is a leader at her church and at Young Life Summer Camps.
